

WHY IS REGISTRATION IMPORTANT?

Australian Government
Organ and Tissue Authority

In Australia the family will always be asked to confirm the donation decisions of the deceased before organ and tissue donation for transplantation can proceed.

Australians are encouraged to join the Australian Organ Donor Register (AODR) to help end the wait for those in need of a life-saving transplant.

Organ donation consent rates

- A 90% of families agreed to donation proceeding when their loved one was a registered donor.
- B 73% of families agreed to organ donation when they knew their loved one's decision.
- C This compares to the 59% national average.
- D 44% of families agreed to donation when the potential donor had not registered or discussed their donation wishes.

Source: DonateLife Audit 2017

81%

of Australians feel it's important to register a donation decision

Source: Woolcott Research (2015)

1 in 3

Australians are registered on the AODR

46%

male

54%

female

only 8%

of Australians aged 18-24 are registered on the AODR

35%

male

65%

female

Source: Australian Organ Donor Register (2016), Australian Demographics Statistics (Dec 2015)